TuWay Communications has met the even more stringent national renewal requirements of the CSC program; an all-industry initiative backed by leading electronics industry associations and major product manufacturers.

Consortium of Certified Service Centers is a not-for-profit organization developed not only to represent distinguished independent electronic service centers, but also to provide a standard that the consumer can rely on when seeking quality and customer service. The CSC program was designed to identify service facilities that strive to provide honest, responsible, competent and world-class customer service. This sets not only a service industry standard but more importantly promotes positive experiences for our consumers.
